Craig Parker

BChD, MFGDP(UK), DPDS.

Craig is well-known and enormously respected by peers and patients alike in the world of implant dentistry, of which he has been totally dedicated to for the last fifteen years.

Originally from London, he qualified at Leeds Dental Institute in 1989. He has studied with some of the most influential experts in the field, including the Masters Course in Aesthetic Implant Dentistry with Professor Buser at the University of Bern in Switzerland.

He now teaches and lectures extensively, nationally and internationally in all aspects of dental implantology, in particular digital treatment planning and computer assisted surgery. This approach enables dental implants to be provided with the highest degree of precision, delivering treatment with predictable success for patients.

He was on the National board of the Royal College of Surgeons (FGDP(UK)) for three years and was an examiner at the RCS for ten years. Craig served on the board of the Association of Dental Implantology for 8 years and was president from 2015 to 2017. In May 2019 he was one of only very few individuals ever to be awarded honorary life membership of the ADI.

Outside work he spends most of his time with family, especially his two boys, Oscar and Charlie. He is a climber and loves, travel, music, film, languages and cooking.
